

Narrow Margin Hands Higdon Frosh Presidency

The Freshman Class Elections held last Wednesday, December 12, resulted in the election of Richard Higdon as Freshman Class President, Robert Diegelman as Vice-President, Edward Brofka as Secretary, Joseph Leonard as Treasurer, and Romuald Siewerski as Freshman Student Council Representative-at-large. A total of 165 ballots were cast out of a total freshman class of 217 or 76%. This number compares poorly with previous years' figures.

Dick Higdon, an English major, narrowly beat out Robert Santoni for the Presidency by a vote of 70 to 63. Richard Kraft trailed with 27 votes.

Vice-Prex.

In the Vice-Presidential race, math major Robert Diegelman easily beat out James Snyder and John Westerfield. The count was 71 for Diegelman, 53 for Snyder, and 38 for Westerfield.

Squeaker

In a real squeaker chemistry major Edward Brofka was elected Secretary over John Schap by one vote, 80-79. In the race for Treasurer, Joseph Leonard scored a handy victory over James Griffin and Donald Pierpont; the vote was 101, 35, and 23 respectively. Romuald Siewerski was elected unopposed.

Taking Oath

It has been announced that the new freshmen officers will be sworn in this morning at 11 o'clock. The Greyhound would like to take this opportunity to congratulate the new officers.

Xmas Dance Features Music By Van Dykes

On Thursday, December 27 from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m., the Green and Grey Club will present its annual Christmas Dance in the Andrew White Center Cafeteria. Music for the evening will be provided by one of Baltimore's most prominent and popular bands, the Van Dykes, who will make their first appearance on Loyola College campus.

Sold Out

The dance's co-chairmen Gerry Pryzbyla and John Coakely are proud to announce that the dance has been completely sold out since last Monday. Two hundred tickets were sold. However, table reservations are free and can be made from John Reese.

Ticket sales were handled by Gerry Pryzbyla, Ben Malinkowski, Jim Berger in the senior class. Juniors John Coakley and Chuck Lancelotta, and sophomore Dick Anderson are also handling tickets. Joe Kearney and George Belz are handling freshman ticket sales.

Decorations

Bill Falkenhan will handle the decorations for the dance which will include green Christmas lights and a 20 foot Christmas tree.

Tickets which cost $3.00 per couple include ice, potatoe chips and pretzels.

Glee Club Plans Christmas Concert With Marymount

The Loyola College Glee Club will give a joint concert with Marymount College in Arlington, Virginia on December 19. The combined choruses, under the direction of Don Haines Guidotti, will present excerpts from Handel's "Messiah."

The program will begin at 8:30 and Loyola students are encouraged to attend. There is room for a limited number of students on the Glee Club bus which will leave Loyola College at 5:45.

On December 23, the Glee Club will make their annual visit to Mercy Hospital. All former members are asked to join in the caroling at Mercy which will begin at 7 o'clock. Anyone interested in caroling at the hospital should contact Jerry Peters. A mixer with the nurses will follow the concert.

Since there will be no Christmas Concert at Loyola this semester both students and friends of Loyola College who missed the Lyric Concert with the Baltimore Symphony are invited to attend the joint Christmas Concert held in Arlington, Virginia.

Christmas Message

To the Students of Loyola College:

I extend to every Loyola student from the faculty and myself sincere wishes for a holy and happy Christmas! I emphasize the "holy" part of this greeting because today people are trying to make our society progressively more this-worldly. For example, they insist that no religious symbol of any kind shall appear on a so-called Christmas postage stamp.

Let us be faithful to our Christian tradition which says that Christmas is "The Mass of Christ" and the center of the celebration is the Divine Babe in His crib. May He renew today something of that pure delight which glowed in our hearts when we first became old enough to appreciate what Christmas is. Let us never forget that the light which comes from the crib is the warmth of divine love unselfishly seeking to make others happy, at one with themselves, their fellow man and with their Maker.

May we all find our Christmas joy in the giving of self so that our family and our friends may be the happier for our presence among them.

God bless you all!

Sincerely,

Vincent F. Beatty, S.J.

Home for the Holidays

There are probably very few students at Loyola who are troubled by the prospect of having little to do over the Christmas holidays. Many will be working for the post office; most have term papers, book reports, and other schoolwork. Some are even going South to take advantage of the Florida sunshine. However, for those who are staying behind, the Greyhound has several suggestions for spending the holidays profitably.

First, attend the Christmas basketball tournament. More complete information on this tournament can be found elsewhere in this issue, but we might remark in passing that the attendance at this event last year was most disappointing, as there were many empty stands. However, those who did come enjoyed four exciting games and had the pleasure of seeing the Hounds win their own tournament—an event which can be repeated this year with the help of an enthusiastic student attendance.

Second, and in a more serious vein, use the holidays for study. They offer an unparalleled opportunity for systematic review before the exams and for taking up the academic slack.

Thirdly, attend the Christmas dance. This dance, coming as it does in the midst of the holidays, offers an opportunity for social enjoyment away from the pressing burdens of school.

These are a few suggestions which may offer some ideas on how to avoid complete inactivity during the holidays. A part of our education certainly involves learning to make good use of our leisure time. Let's rid the habit of idleness.

More on the Freshmen . . .

On several occasions in the past this newspaper has had occasion to berate the freshman class for its apparent lack of spirit as is evidenced by a general failure to take a more active part in the activities of the school. With this editorial we hope to conclude our remarks on this subject.

In this issue we are pleased to publish the results of the freshman class election held last Wednesday; we think that the freshman class has chosen well, and we wish to congratulate the new officers upon their selection. We also urge the freshman class to support their new officers and give them every possible cooperation.

With the election of officers the freshman class will become more organized, and its members more purposefully directed. The officers provide a focal point for the class, and as its natural leaders, they may be expected to spur the class on both individually and collectively to the achievements of which, we feel certain, they are capable.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir:

I will appreciate the opportunity of publicly thanking, through the Greyhound, the twelve members of the Green and Grey Club who generously gave of their time to assist me in my general direction of the American College Testing Program Examination on Saturday, November 10. These young men reported at 7:30 a.m. promptly, and directed visiting students to the proper examination rooms. As a result of their very efficient effort and work, not more than six young persons had to be referred to me for special direction. This was a very valuable contribution to the efficient administration of the examination.

I sincerely thank each and every one of these young men for their generous and valuable assistance.

Thank you,
Mr. F. X. Moritz

The Reviewing Stand

by Tom McCormick

"Gervaise," a French film now at the Little, has the flavor and faults of the Emile Zola novel from which it was adapted. The novel, L'Assommoir (The Dram Shop) is one of the twenty melodramatic romances in Zola's Rougon-Macquart series, relating the trials and tribulations of the picaresque and pathetic poor of Paris in the late 19th century.

The genius of the film lies in its complete capture of the book. Indeed, to criticize the movie is to criticize Zola. All the vascilating and volatile Gallic spirit, the Tears and laughter, the pathos and bathos into which Zola delved, is succinctly, sympathetically, and superbly portrayed. You can hate the movie for its mawkish and maudlin premises, yet still admire the art and affection which brings it across.

Honors for this achievement belong to director Rene Clement and actress Maria Schell. Clement (of "Forbidden Games" fame) directs with impeccable skill; everything from the cobblestone streets in which the Dickensian characters move, to the daguerreotype hue with which he frames them, reveals this. Maria Schell plays the long-suffering and struggling Gervaise with charm and command.

In all, despite its quaintness of genre, "Gervaise" is amazingly arresting and strangely enjoyable film. N.B. In the weeks before Christmas, when the department stores bulge with shoppers, movie houses become

THE WATCHDOG

Hello, puppies, this is the Watchdog coming to you again through the courtesy of your old "high-school" type paper, The Greyhound. Thank you, Mr. Higdon.

Anyway, its that time of year again that Henry Becker runs around in constant trepidation. It seems that, last year, Henry almost killed himself when he started hanging up his Xmas stockings. It seems that he forgot to get out of them first.

Did you hear what the pirate captain said when he dropped 200 cases of liquor into the Panama Canal? "Merry Isthmus!"

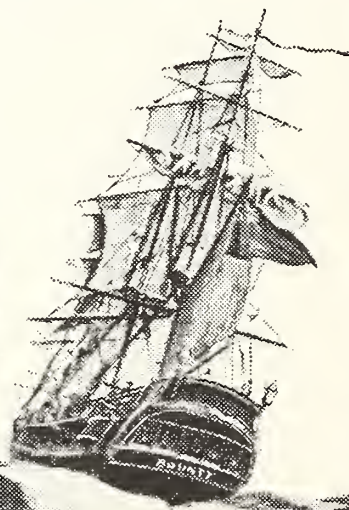

Colin Delpi, sport's fan that he is, is trying to begin a new football classic for his alcoholic friends. Word is that he is currently looking for a name. What about calling it the "Punch Bowl," Colin?

We heard that, last week, a dear friend of ours from the Freshman Class, Rich Higdon, was in a hunting accident. He must have fallen face first onto his rifle barrel because people have told us that he really "shot his mouth off."

THE SKEPTIC TANK

By "Stogie" Clarke

Before I begin my column today, I would like to wish you all a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to all of you fro all of us down in the tank.

I can remember when the loose bricks in the old chimney at my house were first knocked out by that kindly old man in the red suit. So will my father, as he was lighting a fire at the time and the bricks fell on his head. And so will Santa --like I said, Dad was lighting a fire.

Then Santa began filling the stockings. I always hung up those stretch socks . . . He had good intentions, but he wasn't very smart: he blew six fuses stringing the Christmas tree lights. He kept stepping on the glass decanters, grinding them into the rug. And hiccupping . . . always burping and hiccupping. I was about to ask him that age old question: "How do you get in if there's no chimney?" and mom was about to ask, "How many have you had?"

when he placed his finger aside his nose and almost sneezed his head off. We sat there for several hours in a hero-worshipping trance watching him blow fuses, ruining the tree, tripping over wires, losing his beard, having a few snorts with his cookies, and falling on the presents, mashing them. Mom began to make breakfast, and Santa kept trying to play a pancake on the phonograph. I was about to ask him the age old question, "How can you see all the boys and girls in one night if you spend five minutes per house?" when he fainted dead away. Dad heard a noise outside and asked mom, "Is that snow?" She replied, "No, it's only rain, dear." We shoved Santa up the chimney where he remained. We moved a few weeks later. We've tried to keep the whole thing quiet, but the sled and the skeletons on the roof don't help any.

LIEUTENANT JOHN MONTEFUSCO, HISTORY MAJOR, CLASS OF '61

"If I had it to do over again, would I take Army R.O.T.C.?"

My wife and I are in Panama at the moment. She likes it. You know, Officers' Club, dances—that sort of thing. I like it, too. But whether I stay in the Army or not, the question is: Would I take Army R.O.T.C. if I had it to do over again? Yes, I certainly would. In spades, I didn't realize how lucky I was. At the time I figured: Okay, so I'll get my degree—get an Army commission, too, and pick up some extra money along the way! I wasn't the leadership type, I thought. I was wrong. Boy, was I wrong! Looking back on it, I wouldn't trade the leadership training I got for anything! Take my word for it, leaders are made—not born! Whether I stay in the Army or not, nobody can take away what I've learned. And let's face it, where can anybody my age step out of college and walk into a standard of living this good? Look, if you have already invested two years in college ROTC, take it from me: Stick it out! It'll be one of the smartest things you ever did. I say so."

Former Students Receive Habits

by Bill May

On September 8, two former Loyola college students received the habit of the Xaverian Brothers at Profession-Investiture ceremonies at Sacred Heart Novitiate, Leonardtown, Md. The newly invested brothers are Frank Moritz (Brother Gregory, C.F.X.), and James J. Deboy (Brother Edwin, C.F.X.). Both are graduates of Mount St. Joseph's High School, Class of 1960, and completed their sophomore years at Loyola.

Frank is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moritz. While at Loyola he majored in English. He was a photographer on The Greyhound staff and a member of the cross-country team and Music Club.

Jim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Deboy Sr. He majored in physics and was also a member of The Greyhound staff.

The new novices will spend the next two years at the novitiate. After the novitiate they will be stationed at Xaverian College, Silver Spring, Maryland. They will continue their studies at the Catholic University in Washington, and very likely will receive their degrees in the same subjects they majored in at Loyola. They will then teach in the Sacred Heart Province of the Xaverian Brothers.

FORMER LOYOLANS: Frank Moritz and Jim Deboy are now at the Sacred Heart Novitiate at Leonardtown.

vacant of viewers. The custom of the first-run theatre owners has been to feature older films in double bills. Take advantage of this, for some of the oldies now showing are classics: "La Dolce Vita" at the Aurora, "Gone With the Wind" at the Town, "Pal Joey" at the Hippodrome. Although more recent, the belated first-runs which the Showcase Theatres are presenting seem like an interesting group; they are: "The Kitchen" at the 5 West, "The Angry Silence" at the Playhouse, "The Ninth Circle" at the Cinema. Being in the Christmas spirit, I might as well add a plug for the film festival which the Aurora is now having--some of these films are exceptional, others are trash.

Junior Cagers Set Pace In Intra League

Upperclass teams dominated Intra-mural League action last week as there was another full slate of games. Especially predominant were the junior teams who won three of the four scheduled games.

The Polar Bears and the Finks, two junior teams, won by wide scores as they beat the Primitive Streaks and the Rebels respectively. The Polar Bears triumphed 67-20 as Ed Dohler scored 19 points, and both Campbell and Burchell also registered double figures. The Finks leveled the Rebels by a score of 77-21. Stan Kyper was high with 26 while Manillo scored 14 for the Rebels.

The junior Mavericks had a tougher time as they beat the Far Tars 46-34. Pete Gomsak scored 12 for the Mavericks and Paul De-Boy was high for the opposition with 10 points. The Senior Bombers won the final game, defeating the Animals 66-49. Bob Schu had 30 points to lead the Bombers, while Snyder and Sweeny together scored 30 for the Animals.

Last Wednesday it was the Fern Docks vs. Raids, and Sharks vs. Steve Allen All-Stars, while today the Porky Pigs play the 1.5's, and Hacks play the Dodgers. This will be the first action for each of these teams.

C.C.D. Course Being Organized At Evergreen

Many Loyola students have expressed the desire that a Confraternity of Christian Doctrine course be set up on campus. The CCD has a wide range of activities.

In order to obtain a CCD teaching certificate, a Loyola student would have to take thirty hours of methodology, a course taught by the Mission Helpers of the Sacred Heart. The course would meet for two hours a week for fifteen weeks at a time convenient for those taking it. The theology courses at Loyola fulfill the requirement for a thirty hour doctrine course.

The Student Council has made preliminary arrangements for establishing a CCD course. After the Christmas vacation, Father Thomas Mardega, who is in charge of the CCD program in Baltimore, will meet with those students who are interested in such a course. Then, a student governing board will be set up to better run the organization.

If all goes well, the course will get under way at the beginning of the second semester. Any students who are interested in the CCD course are urged to attend the meeting with Father Mardega in January. The time and place for this meeting will be announced shortly.

Merman Marty Pilsch and team-mate Al Kubelius shattered Hound pool records in last week's meet.

Hapless Hound Cagers Off To Slow Beginning

Going into last Wednesday's home encounter with St. Peter's College, the Greyhound cagers were still looking for their first win after three straight losses. The Hounds dropped the season's opener to Western Maryland in overtime by an 89-81 score. Unable to hold onto an early 12 point lead, the Hounds were one point down at the half. The second half was close all the way. Marty Maher's desperation shot was wide and the score was tied as the buzzer sounded. Richie Klitzberg scored seven points in the 5-minute overtime period to lead his team to victory. Marty Maher was high point man for Loyola with 22 points, mostly on driving lay-ups and jumpers. Captain Charlie added 18 points with his deadly two-handed set.

On Friday the Hounds traveled to South Orange, New Jersey where they encountered their second loss to a strong Seton Hall team. The final score (75-57) was somewhat misleading as Loyola was down by only 8 points with 40 seconds remaining. It took an all out effort by the Pirates' Nick Werkman to subdue the scrappy Hounds. The 6'3" junior broke four of his school's records as he gunned in 42 points, most of them from the foul line in the second half. Don Wallenhorst led Loyola's scorers with 16 points. Steve Bogusky and Billy Morris pushed in 12 points each.

A strong 22-point performance by sophomore leaper Pat Flynn was obscured by a 76-63 loss to the "Flying Dutchmen" of Hofstra College. Don Wallenhorst was next high man with 15 points.

In Seton Hall, St. Peter's and Hofstra, the Hounds played top-notch ball clubs. Their next game pits them against West Chester State College in the Holiday tournament. The competition remains tough. It is interesting to note that the Hound record stood at 1-3 this time last year but they went on to win the tournament.

If the same pattern is repeated this year the Hounds should boast a good winning record.

Strong Loyola Swimmers Post Consecutive Wins

Last Friday night the Loyola swimming team once again began the foremost biennial exercise of its unusual migratory habits in a gala sortie on the great Northeast. The first clash with the enemy came on the same night against Seton Hall University.

The Green and Grey Tankmen gained a decisive victory in this meet defeating the Pirates 62-33. Al Kubelius scored a double victory in the 100 and 200 freestyle events. Tom Jeffers led the long distance swimmers in the grueling 500 yard freestyle. Loyola men, Tippy Cronin and Marty Pilsch, gained the primary spots in the 200 'fly. As usual Ken Freimuth won the 200 breaststroke but finished a surprising second to Crookes of Seton Hall in the individual medley. Freshman Paul Palmieri took the diving in excellent form.

The following Saturday afternoon Loyola met improved Holy Cross and St. Peter's teams in a rare triangular meet. Another unusual element in this meet was the condition of the pool which resembled the Caribbean in hurricane season. Loyola defeated Holy Cross and St. Peter's 88-53-23 respectively. The Greyhounds posted three double winners--Al Kubelius in the 50 and 100 free, Marty Pilsch in the 200 and 500 freestyle and Ken Freimuth in the 200 breast and individual medley. Freshman Bill Bullough showed promise in the individual leading Freimuth for the first four laps of the event.

Matmen Stress Holiday Practice

The approaching Christmas holidays are a source of joy to all Loyolans--except the Hound wrestlers. So far the team has been hampered by scholastic requirements in its efforts to have organized practices. Coach Charley Carey had hoped to pull the team together during the holidays but most of the squad members are working either during the day or at night. Thus the team will be even more split up over the holidays than it is already.

First Match Jan. 5

The thing that really has the team worried is that they have their first match on Jan. 5, against Hopkins, only two days after the end of the Christmas vacation. By the time that Loyola has this match, most of the other teams will have already competed. So far the Hounds have had only a few, full, nine-minute wrestling sessions.

Loyola's hardest matches will be against Old Dominion College and Baltimore U. on January 11, the second match of the season. But much practice will have to be done to beat them.

The Riflemen

Due to the outstanding coaching of Ken Funke, the rifle team came from behind to nip both Dickinson College and Johns Hopkins last week. Both matches were shot under heavy pressure, and proved the championship quality that enabled the Hound Riflemen to take all honors last year. At Dickinson, scorers were Norm Williams, with a superb performance of 280, followed closely by Yox, Nooney, O'Neill and Miller. In this close battle, Loyola won by 1 point, 1371-1370.

Again at Johns Hopkins, Norm Williams (277) and Tom Nooney (279) led the Hounds to victory in a thrilling finish, the last shot deciding the outcome. It was Norm Williams clutch shooting that enabled the team to pull it out in the last seconds. The Riflemen's record now stands at 6-0. Ken Funke promises that Morgan State will fall this Friday, when Loyola invades.

Loyola Hosts Invitational Tourney

Hound Hoopsters Defend Title Won Last Year

On the nights of December 28th and 29th, the second annual Loyola Invitational Basketball Tournament will be staged in the Evergreen gym. The opening night lineup features Ohio Wesleyan against Lafayette College in the 7:30 p.m. first game with the host Hounds meeting West Chester State in the 9:15 p.m. second game. Loyola is the defending champ in the tourney but will have its hands full trying to repeat last season's win in this tough competition.

However, last year Loyola wasn't given too much of a chance but nevertheless came up with a decisive triumph. The Hounds will have the best balanced team in the Tourney field but as usual will be plagued by their inability to come up with rebounds. Perhaps hustle can atone for the rebounding deficiency.

Student Turnout

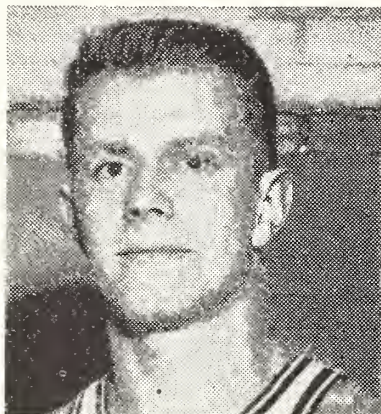

For the Tournament to be successful, a good student turnout is required. Last year, a two-night total of 90 students attended the Tournament. This total is ridiculously low in a school of 800 students. Considering the low ticket price for students--$1 per night if purchased in advance; the calibre of competition--the visiting teams posted an aggregate record of 51-18 last season; and the convenience of locale--the Tourney is the only major sports attraction in Baltimore during the holidays--the Tournament should be a sellout among the student body. Student tickets will be available in the cafeteria daily from today until the last day of school.

Lafayette College Coach George Davidson led his charges to an 18-6 record last year.

HOUND MENTOR: "Lefty" Reitz was the co-ordinator of this year's Loyola Invitational Tourney.

Lafayette hoop captain averages 11.6 from his guard position.

Quickness And Hustle Mark Leopard Squad

Lafayette College will meet favored Ohio Wesleyan in the opener of this season's Loyola Invitational Basketball Tournament. Lafayette Leopards last year posted an 18-6 record but graduation took the team's two high scorers, Harry Lundy (17.5) and Bob Kauffman (15.2). In view of this loss of scoring punch, Leopard coach George Davidson will have to stress defense. In this department, Lafayette was ranked ninth in the country last season.

Lafayette also lacks rebounding strength due to a lack of height. Thus the Leopards are much like Loyola's Greyhounds in that they have no high scorers and big men but have good hustle, defense and balance.

In an effort to take advantage of his resources, Lafayette coach George Davidson has come up with a unique two-platoon system. He will alternate two teams, one of which will specialize in a free-wheeling offense designed to set up screens for outside shots; the other will feature a defense which will use a full court press for varying lengths of time. It will be interesting to see how well this novel innovation will work. The system will be put to a real test in the opener against the tough Wesleyan squad.

Wesleyan Quintet Boasts Fine Rebounding Power

A solid favorite to capture this year's Loyola Invitational Tournament is Ohio Wesleyan University. The "Battling Bishops" last season posted a 21-3 record overall and a 15-1 mark in the tough Ohio Conference. Most of the starters from this pennant winning outfit will return to the Wesleyan lineup this season.

Heading the Bishops lineup in the tournament will be soph forward Ray Slabaugh. Clemens, in his first varsity season last year, averaged 17 points a game. His high total for the season was 34 markers against Baldwin Wallace. At 6'7" and 210 pounds, Clemens and his 6'7" partner in the forecourt, Larry Washburn, give Wesleyan fine rebounding strength. Together they averaged 24 rebounds per game last year.

Ray Slabaugh, a 5'8" guard, is the Bishop's captain. He averaged 12 points per game last year and excelled in the role of playmaker.

The Wesleyan team last season outscored its opponents (by average of all scores) 67-56.

West Chester Features Young Starting Lineup

Five returning lettermen and a host of talented sophomores from an undefeated freshman team comprise West Chester State College's entry in this year's invitational tournament. Heading the veterans is co-captain Dale Waters, a 6'1" senior who averaged 16.6 points per game in the "Rams" 14-7 campaign last year. The best of the sophs appears to be 6'2" Charlie Hottenstein whose 21.4 average for the frosh team included an 82% mark from the foul line and a single game high of 48 points.

An interesting "battle of mites" shapes up between the "Ram's" Rick Beckett and Loyola's Charlie O'Donnell. Both boys are 5'6" tall and handle the "quarterbacking" chores of their respective teams. Both are extremely good ball handlers.

Three of West Chester's seven losses last season were by one or two points. Their most impressive win was a 75-73 win over Hofstra College. Hofstra went on to the N.C.A.A. small college tournament where they dropped a close decision to Mt. St. Mary's, the N.C.A.A. champion.

The West Chester-Loyola tilt will pit speed against speed with the Rams holding a slight height advantage.

Charlie O'Donnell figures to be the Hound pace-maker in tournament action.
